
Audio demos of the new JoMoX XBASE999!!!

Judge for yourself and listen: XBASE999

I like the bass drum sound. But that's all, for the rest there's nothing special. And still that crappy snare drum sound from the XBase09. Why not something new and better... It seems the evolution of analog drum machines stopped a long time ago...

Hopefully Future-Retro will put a drum machine out some day. Those guys seem to be able to put a fresh spin in oldskool EM ideas.

Nice Dalek!

How about a dedicated drum synth VST from Native Instruments? That would be some good ish.

Ever tried uTonic? It's pretty cool. Sure, NI could make something that had 6 zillion features, but uTonic is simple and bangin'.

An Future-Retro analog drum machine would be awesome! With the step-sequencer layed out in circles. That will kick ass.

Maybe someday...

I'd take one...of the FR machine. I really feel like Jomox puts demos up that don't do their machines justice. These sound too ordinary. I bet that machine is capable of some really good stuff.

the 999 sounds, uh, basically just like the 09. machinedrum plus mbase is the ticket.

I found those demos completely underwhelming. The MD-UW essentially does all of those sounds and much more.

Yes, but you can't judge the machinedrum or the machinedrum uw by the demos on the elektron site...though they are better than these crap demos. I damn well know this 999 is capable of great sounds...so I'm not gonna diss it. Jomox should be dissed for putting up such bad demos. JSRockit love em or hate em,

the machinedrum doesn't create the same timbres as the jomox,
and vice versa.

thus i don't see the point in 'comparing' them, it comes down to which sound you like.

I don't either...but the demos do suck.
