
Los Angeles - Looking For Music Buddies

Posted by Digital Aspergers - 2012/09/15 10:53

Hey everybody,

I live in Hell Eh and am wondering if anyone in Elektron land does too. Just looking for people to play music with. I have more time than most of my usual collaborators so always looking to fill the gaps in my schedule.

Cheers

I'm not in L.A., but as a techno fan, I've admired this production crew.

DROID

You might like to check out one of their shows and get connected to what's going on in their scene.

I've interneted with a few of them and they're very pleasant chaps.

peace from Canada

i work in culver city, live in pasadena super swamped with work and a 1 year old son, but i do get a tiny bit of play time now and then, would be totally down for a little elektron los angeles meet n greet beer n irie chill time though if others would want to join in, i'll keep an eye out on this thread

droid was mentioned, gotta' give it up to those vargas brothers and team for holding down the techno tip in los angeles, so grateful for them and drumcell and their whole crew....thee-o's viva la tech warehouse parties are pretty legit too imho

pbr? is it possible to choose a place with quality draft beer too? anyplace that is ganja friendly is a plus too imho but not necessary, but nice

Hey dudes.

I'm not in LA, but I am going to be out there in August doing a live PA set at a secret loft warehouse jam downtown. It's mid month at the moment, but that might change. I think Hunee is DJing as well!! I can send a blast out when everything gets closer and solidified if anybody is interested.

Also I'll probably be out there for a week-ish. So there will be time to hang/jam and I'll have my gear w me!

Edit: Don't forget about the Rhonda parties. More on the house/disco tip, but super super fun.

I'm in Santa Monica. Always down to jam out. I suppose there's enough of us to have an "Elektron-Users Bar Night".

What's the best place in LA to go out and represent as a bunch of dudes in love with metal boxes with lots of knobs and LCD screens? I'm going with somewhere on the outskirts of downtown.

Can't be Silver Lake/Echo Park: That's where the rich kids pretending to be poor with modular synth fetishes patch eachother's CVs, if you know what I mean.

Can't be West Hollywood: They don't like boxes there. I'm so, so sorry. I just had to take that bait.

Can't be Santa Monica or Venice: shuts down over here around 11:30 and all the kids that go out in Venice use VSTs and Novation Launchpads that their daddy the film producer got them for Christmas.

Any other neighborhood suggestions? I'm too bitter to pick a place. Haha

But seriously let's get a real bar/club night together and talk gear and possible collaboration. I have tons of gear (MD/A4/Live 9/Push are the highlights) and am getting more (Mutable Instruments Anushri should be here soon, about to buy a Roland JX-305 off this guy on CL for 350- why not? I'll keep it until it's actual vintage in 15 years and all the kiddies cycle back to vintage shit like we did haha).

I would love to help organize these parties, fyi i'm out in Echo Park. Would be interested in doing a meet n greet first maybe at dj Pierre's event this sunday at the standard rooftop cuz most of us got into this because of techno n acid and pierre is well like a god-father. My email is reubenirving@yahoo.com then ill pass my # think about car pooling and make sure the other members are legit. You never know, but lets keep it chill.

Good to see so many from LA on the board! I didn't realize how many there were and from the SGV no less. I'm actually closer to the IE than LA these days though. I would love to meet up if my schedule permits. I'll be traveling a bit over the next few months.

PM me and i can coordinate with the location host and what the location has to offer. Jam out no jam out both ok. Bar,loft, cafe, underground warehouse all ok. Good idea bringing you own. Equipment to share and trade knowlogde and

"show off those home kitchener cabinet making skills. Lol this Sun is the earliest i can set it up, also we can do weekdays for those who can only do week days and not week ends. I just ordered an Emx-1 and i'll but my MDUW for those who want to try. Good idea to let those who know be the "elder" and those who don't know "sit quietly and listen"! Who's down?! Raw! 1,2,3 ELEKTRON!!! Raw!

Well, I do not have a pa or anything, just the space to hang at. My setup is pretty minimal. I am one of those poor kids pretending to be rich, and yes I like CV. ;) Im down to play host if others are down to help with the rest. I mean, just a meetup would be cool by me as well. Yes...how to proceed. Probably July is a good timeframe.

Hey guys. All this sounds awesome. I'll probably be out for the entire second week of August for that live gig and then another at the downtown standard as a DJ set. My stuff leans towards the housey side of things. But would be awesome to meet you all in person.

Here's a DJ set of recent vintage.

Re:Los Angeles - Looking For Music Buddies

Posted by HouseWarez - 2013/07/04 15:12

Hmm, is anyone actually for real about meeting up in LA or?
Cuz if it's a venue it's gunna take some work to setup. If a studio
To jam in it's gunna cost doe, if a meet-up then it's just a few drinks.
I've only gotten about 6 pm from those who are interested but unsure
About where and how. I say we pick a place then meet and see how it goes.
Pm me if your interested in this weekend meet friday or sat. Send me a pm
Or your contact info and i'll start sending the invite info to those who wanna be Apart of a more physical presence in the community and grow as artists
And nerds. Plus free limited supply of Kitchenware on a first come first serve basis.

Re:Los Angeles - Looking For Music Buddies

Posted by RyanA4 - 2013/07/04 15:30

So basically the Elektron-Users forum is experiencing the exact same problem everyone else experiences when they try to get together a bunch of people in LA!

Forget the PMs, this is how you do it in LA: If you have 2-3 solid commitments on a place to chill, just post where you're meeting and whoever shows up shows up.

It is impossible to please everyone with a place in this town. Democracy does not work. You must dictate where, when, why and how, and the people will fall in line! Elektron comrades.... unite!

I've been asking around and many places are fine to go and kick it with friends. There is this chill hookah place in silver lake that doesn't have many people during Week days so i think it would be a good spot to smoke hookah, drink teas/coffee and jam with elekton buddies.
